We make the mistake of referring to a specific computer program as a tool. . .
Each tool becomes several tools and each requires an underlying body of knowledge for it to be used successfully.
And there is very little that is user friendly.

Frank Romano
Too Many Tools, in Color Publishing
(Volume 1, Number 4, Winter 1991)